

“
“ There is no such thing as a people that possesses an entirely original culture, because each people inherits, through the very act of its ethnogenesis, the various preceding cultures; also, in the course of ethnoevolution, all the peoples are in permanent contact with other peoples and cultures which they influence, and by which they are influenced in their turn.”
”

Traian HERSENI