

““ There is no way, either more interesting or certain, of knowing the moral and intellectual forces of a nation, other than its folk literature; and there is no way, either more suitable or beautiful, of giving cultivated literature an original and distinctive character, other than nourishing it with folk literature.””

Bogdan Petriceicu HASDEU